Building a Sustainable Future with Thornton's Water Investments

Providing clean water requires ongoing maintenance and investment in the Thornton Water system. The advanced metering and ongoing meter replacement program, pipeline rehabilitation and replacement program, pressure reducing valves (PRVs) repair and replacement projects, and ongoing maintenance activities are just a few ways we are improving the resiliency and sustainability of Thornton's water system. Learn more about your investments at work in our latest Waterblogged article.

PFAS Regulations Announced

"Forever Chemicals" or PFAS have been making headlines again lately as the EPA announced new regulations to go into effect in 2029. Thornton has significantly reduced its PFAS levels in the past two years and anticipates no issue meeting the requirements in the coming years. Learn more about our progress and latest sampling results on the Water Quality webpage.
