This beautiful shrub can grow to be 12 feet tall! A member of the hibiscus family it is covered with large tropical looking flowers in mid summer. To keep this plant in shape prune in late winter before bud break. It produces its flower buds on the current year growth.

Tolerant of many adverse conditions it can withstand urban pollution, heat, cold, and drought, which makes this a great species for the front range. Follow a regular watering schedule during the first growing season to establish a deep extensive root system. Plant in full sun. It is tolerant of most soils.
