This attractive juniper keeps its blue tinted foliage color year round. The branches are long, and horizontally spreading giving a somewhat layered appearance. It is a tough low maintenance shrub. Plant it where it has the space it needs to grow. Many people like to hack at junipers with hedge clippers. Don't. They do not tolerate such pruning since they tend not to produce new growth on old wood.

Regular watering while this shrub is becoming established will help it produce an extensive root system making it very drought tolerant. Junipers tolerate a wide range of soil types and are not picky about soil fertility. They will not tolerate saturated soil. They are a good choice for covering slopes and dry hot areas.
