

Frobel Spirea

Spirea x bumalda 'Froebelii'

Height: 3'-4'
Width: 4'-5'
(At Maturity)
Growth Rate: Fast
USDA Zone: 4-8
Bloom: Carmine Red
Time: June/July
Sun: Full/Partial Water: Medium

This is a low maintenance shrub that is good for creating a low growing hedge or foundation planting. Frobel spirea produces clusters of showy carmine colored flowers which can attract butterflies. It has an attractive bluish green foliage which emerges brick red in the spring, and turns a coppery bronze in the fall.

This rounded multi stemmed shrub is best pruned in late winter. Should it get to spindly and out of shape you can rejuvenate it by cutting it all the way back to approximately 6" above the ground. It will grow best in full sun and where it gets even moisture. It is not particular about soil type or pH. It has proven itself to be highly tolerant of urban conditions.