Abundant, sweetly fragrant flowers will make this one of your favorite spring bloomers. The small shiny dark green leaves are born on slender branches which radiate outward to form a compact rounded shrub. The Korean lilac is extremely resistant to powdery mildew, and this tough little shrub has no serious pest problems. Should you need to prune any lilac, it should be done right after they have finished blooming. They produce next years flowers on this years stem growth.

To get the greatest number of blooms it is best to plant this shrub in full sun but it will tolerate some light shade. It is tolerant of Urban conditions and is adaptable to various soil types . Removal of faded flower panicles before seed set will increase the bloom in the following years.
